

The European fund industry: The future looks bright

According to a survey conducted by PIMS International, European fund distributors have an optimistic view on the future of their industry

According to a story by HedgeWeek published on May 11, the European fund distributors are