

Regulators target hedge funds due to concerns over risk of collapse

Financial regulators around the world are putting hedge funds under their microscope amid rising concerns that the recent dramatic growth of the sector could pose a risk to financial stability

The following is according to a sto