

Pension fund stampede may double hedge funds total assets under management

According to several industry experts, a new push into hedge fund waters by pension funds could double the hedge fund industry's assets under management from $2 trillion in several years

The following is reported by Reuters on A