

Bundesbank official urges stiff shareholding disclosure

According to a Bundesbank official, cutting the threshold at which investors must declare that they have corporate shareholdings would further hedge fund transparency.

October 18 (Reuters): According to Bundesbank board member E