

Investor confidence falls heading into 2006

According to State Street, interest rate caution and potentially slowing economy has brought down investor confidence in December.

December 21 (Reuters): According to US financial services firm State Street, fear of rising inter