

University study with valuable lesson from the mutual fund world?: Mutual fund investors should look in the mirror first when portfolios lag behind

According to a new university study, most mutual fund investors only have themselves to blame if their portfolios lag behind the market.

February 26 (NY Times): Most mutual fund investors have only themselves to blame if their p