

SEC director tells managers it's OK to talk performance if asked

According to the associate director of the SEC's investment division, hedge fund managers are free to comment on their funds' performances, provided that they do not "flaunt" them.

April 3 (Alternative Investment News): Robert P