

Hedge fund growth could falter if controls slacken

The growth of hedge fund assets could dwindle if managers do not actively prevent frauds and blowups, according to an industry insider.

May 1 (Reuters): The rapid asset growth of hedge funds could halt if fund managers do n