

Volatility becomes an asset class

A range of structured derivative products are becoming the preferred route for many hedge fund managers and proprietary traders to make bets on market volatility.

May 24 (Financial Times): According to the Financial Ti