

The financial sector sees too much regulation as big risk

For the second year in a row, the financial sector sees excessive regulation as the biggest threat its existence.

June 28 (Reuters): For the second year in a row, regulatory overkill is seen by the financial sector as being