

European firms ready for MiFID, divided over its benefits

According to a new industry survey, European financial service providers are ready for the implantation of MiFID next year. However, the sector is very divided when it comes to the benefits of the new directive.

According to a n