

Pension funds and asset managers at odds over future pension fund product needs

According to a new study by a UK think tank, asset managers and pension funds do not agree as to which products pension fund will want over the next five years. While asset managers see alternative investments in the future, the pension