

Alternative investment head: The hedge fund industry needs to clean up its image

According to an industry insider, hedge funds are generally misunderstood by politicians and regulators, whose attempts to further transparency in turn is misguided. Some of the blame for this must be placed with the hedge funds themselves, he s