

Second chances are becoming scarce for hedge fund managers

As institutional hedge fund investors are becoming increasingly savvy, it has become much harder to attract them if you have major losses behind you.

February 21 (HedgeWorld): For managers, a second chance is becoming harder to