

European institutional investments in hedge funds set to slow down

Institutional investors in Europe gathered in London last week for a discussion about the future growth rate of hedge fund investments and concluded that the near future could involve stagnation.

December 3 (IPE).