

Short-selling hedge funds lead the way

Hedge funds shorting the market were the only ones that made money in November, according to the EDHEC business school's asset management research centre.