

German President calls global financial markets monster

German President Horst Koehler said to German magazine "Stern" that he is still waiting for a "mea culpa", meaning that bankers still had not admitted their responsibility for contributing to the lending crisis. He went on saying that now all reasonably t