

Finnish pension companies' large hedge fund investments may lead to revision of regulations

Finnish pension companies' large investment over the past year in hedge funds might lead to revision of current investment and solvency regulations the FT reported.
Government and the Insurance Supervisory Authority were doubtful