

Cicero Fonder: Large institutions still on sidelines

The advance in the stock markets this year has happened in a low volume environment, which indicates that there is uncertainty about the strength of the international recovery.

This has implied that the majority of the large institutions have st