

Sprott Management: US government's current trajectory is a great risk

Canadian Sprott Asset management believes that the US government's current course presents one of the greatest risks at play today:

- We believe the US government's current trajectory presents one of the greatest macro-economic risks a