

Radar outperformed the market in March

The events in Japan and North Africa had a significant effect on stock markets during March.

After large swings both up and down the Swedish stock market averages finished up 2 percent (including dividends) for the month. Radar outperformed