

Radar slightly down in April

A large share of companies reported first quarter earnings during April and several companies beat expectations. The Stockholm stock market ended up around 2 percent. April was however a disappointment for Radar which declined 2.77 percent, writes