Stockholm (HedgeNordic) – Wealth management company CapMan Wealth Services has recruited four new wealth advisory, alternative investment and marketing professionals at the beginning of the year, including Mikael Falck (pictured), former Head of Alternative Investments at Kåpan Pensioner. Falck started his new role as Head of Private Markets on March 1.

“After 5 great years at Kåpan Pensioner, I am honoured to have joined this week the highly professional team of CapMan Wealth Services.”

“After 5 great years at Kåpan Pensioner, I am honoured to have joined this week the highly professional team of CapMan Wealth Services,” Falck writes in a LinkedIn post. “Looking forward to exciting times ahead.” In his role at Swedish public pension insurance company Kåpan, he was responsible for alternative investments, including private equity, real estate and infrastructure investments. Before joining Kåpan in November 2015, Falck spent 12 years at Nordea Investment Management, where he was responsible for alternative investments and external manager selection.

CapMan Wealth Services, a wealth advisor focusing on institutional investors, foundations, family offices, and high-net-worth-individuals (HNWI), has also recruited Piia Nyberg from Handelsbanken, Aaron Paulakorpi from LähiTapiola, and Pauliina Puputti from Mandatum. At Handelsbanken, Nyberg worked as Investment Director and Senior Private Banker, while Paulakorpi was responsible for private banking and ultra-high-net-worth-individuals and family offices in South-Western Finland at LähiTapiola. Both Nyberg and Puputti join CapMan Wealth Services as Directors of Wealth Advisory. Puputti, who is appointed Marketing and Sales Concept Specialist, joins the team from Mandatum, where she developed and created marketing material to enhance client experience and provide sales support.

“We are very pleased with our new colleagues and the experience and networks that they contribute.”

“We are very pleased with our new colleagues and the experience and networks that they contribute,” Christian Borgström, Managing Partner of CapMan Wealth Services, said earlier this year. “Our strengthened team offers a broader client base global access to publicly listed and private products.”
