

Norron Hires an ESG Manager

Stockholm (HedgeNordic) - Norron Asset Management has hired Clara Hamrén as its ESG manager after the departure of former ESG, Marketing & Communications Manager Elin Lilja-Wainwright to Invesco earlier this year. This appointment follows the hiring of Sebastian Uddén, one of the partners and co-founders of Nordic Cross Asset Management, as Head of Sales in Sweden during the summer.

Clara Hamrén joins Norron Asset Management from consultancy firm Trossa, where she worked as a sustainability consultant for four years. Hamrén has been simultaneously serving as a climate leader for the Climate Reality Project founded by former U.S. Vice President Al Gore.

"From today, I work as ESG Manager at Norron Asset Management. I now look forward to continuing to work with sustainability in the business community together with my colleagues at Norron."

"In June, I worked my last day at Trossa AB. But a lot is going on in the sustainability world right now, which is why it was time for me to move on to new challenges," Clara Hamrén writes on LinkedIn. "From today, I work as ESG Manager at Norron Asset Management. I now look forward to continuing to work with sustainability in the business community together with my colleagues at Norron."

Norron Asset Management currently runs two fixed-income funds, three hedge funds, and two long-only equity funds. The Stockholm-based asset manager oversees SEK 13.5 billion in assets under management as of the end of July across the seven funds, with its long/short equity funds Norron Target and Norron Select managing SEK 4.3 billion and SEK 602 million, respectively.
